Launch of New Pachinko Machine P Ultraman Mebius Dekaheso319

Our consolidated subsidiary FIELDS CORPORATION announces the launch of a new pachinko machine, P Ultraman Mebius Dekaheso319.

■ About Ultraman Mebius

The “tokusatsu”¹ television series Ultraman Mebius was produced and broadcast in 2006 as the 40th anniversary commemorative title of the Ultraman series. A key feature of this series is its connection to the Ultraman heroes of the Showa-era despite being part of the Heisei-era series lineup. By paying tribute to the Showa-era Ultraman series and depicting the events that followed its conclusion, Ultraman Mebius drew considerable attention and remains popular among multiple generations of Ultraman fans.

With “friendship” as its central theme, the series depicts the coming-of-age story of Ultraman Mebius and the members of the “CREW GUYS” special investigation team. The story continues even after the protagonist’s identity as Ultraman is revealed—a first in the history of the Ultraman series—and became a major topic of discussion among fans.

In parallel with the television series, the feature film ULTRAMAN MEBIUS & ULTRAMAN BROTHERS was released in September 2006. Cast members from the Showa-era Ultraman series reprised their previous roles, thrilling fans. Following the film’s release, popular heroes from past generations, including Ultraman, Ultraseven, and the other Ultraman Brothers, made appearances in the television series, garnering widespread interest not only among children, but also among adult fans of the classic works.

This year, to commemorate the 60th anniversary of the Ultraman series, the event “ULTRAMAN Gallery Heisei Climax Exhibition,” focusing on Ultraman Mebius and Ultraman Max, is scheduled to be held in Japan in April.

¹ “Tokusatsu” (特撮) refers to a genre of live-action films and television series built around special effects, utilizing costumed heroes and monsters, pyrotechnics, miniatures and other practical effects to bring fictional settings to life.

P Ultraman Mebius Dekaheso319 showcases the largest selection of live action Ultraman hero footage among Ultraman pachinko titles, featuring heroes from both the Showa and Heisei eras. It is not only for pachinko and pachislot enthusiasts but a wide range of people, including “tokusatsu” and Ultraman fans. The machine is scheduled for delivery in April 2026 to pachinko halls throughout Japan.
